

ArLA 2022 Annual Conference Program Event Form

All conference events, including Community of Interest and Committee meetings, will be scheduled using forms submitted through this portal. Programs and meetings will be scheduled in 30-50 minute blocks. Posters will be displayed all day on Saturday, October 15; a designated 50 minute block will be scheduled for poster presenters to be available to present their posters and answer questions.

Submit a separate form for each program, meeting, or poster you're proposing.

ArLA is committed to hosting an inclusive and welcoming conference experience for the entirety of our membership. We invite participation, and especially program proposals, from people of all ethnicities, genders, ages, abilities, religions, and sexual orientations. ArLA is committed to making all reasonable accommodations that will allow conference attendees and presenters to fully participate in conference events.

If you have any questions, or need assistance, please contact Jenn Wann, ArLA Conference Program Subcommittee Chair, at jennwann@outlook.com.

Program
Information

When we gather in Fort Smith in October 2022, it will be the first time in three years that we have been together. The 2022 Annual Conference will be dedicated to honoring how far we have come; taking a deep breath as we recalibrate our personal, professional, and organizational identities; and bolster ourselves for the challenges ahead and the ground still to cover.

To that end, the Program Subcommittee is looking for program proposals that:

- * celebrate the innovative programs and initiatives Arkansas' libraries have undertaken during times of duress;
- * explore the ways we can build deeper connections within our communities and within our own professional community;
- * provide a sense of individual value, renewal, and growth for the work done in libraries regardless of the type of library worked in or the type of position held; and
- * explore the ways that library services intersect with the larger culture and mood of this particular moment in time through the lens of art, economics, education, or technology.

The Conference Program Subcommittee will use the following information to select a range of programs that support the conference theme, and represent the range of our diverse membership including academic, public, school, and special library organizations, and professional and para-professional members.

The detailed description of your proposed program should include:

- * topics that will be addressed or activities that will take place during the session;
- * 3-5 learning outcomes that use active verbs, are measurable, and state what the participants should know or be able to do after attending your session (e.g. "At the end of this session, participants will..."); and
- * how the program fits the conference theme.

Programs may include single or multiple presenters, panel discussions, case studies, interactive hands-on activities, demonstrations of projects, etc.

10. Please provide a detailed description of your proposed program for the Conference Program Subcommittee to review. (See above for additional information.) Please limit your response to 250 words. *

Poster
Information

Poster sessions are a great way to highlight library programs, initiatives, and collaborations without committing to a full presentation. Posters will be displayed all day on the Saturday, October 15 in the Convention Center. A designated fifty (50) minute block will be scheduled for poster presenters to be available to present their poster and answer questions.

The Conference Program Subcommittee will use the following information to select a range of posters that support the conference theme. This year's conference theme, Finding the New Normal, is all about acknowledging the struggles we've faced in the last two years, recognizing how far we have come, and taking a deep breath as we recalibrate our personal, professional, and organizational identities.

Poster proposals may describe an innovative library program; an analysis of a solution to a problem; a report of a research study; or provide any other information that would benefit the ArLA community. Posters will be evaluated by the Conference Program Subcommittee on:

- * how the content supports the conference theme;
- * relevancy and interest of the content to the ArLA community; and
- * clarity of the submitted abstract.

17. Please provide a brief abstract of the content of your proposed poster. Please limit your response to no more than 150 words. *
